Pince & Pints Lobster Restaurant & Bar @ Katong – One Of The Best Lobster Places In Singapore Opens New Outlet

Pince & Pints. A name that invariably comes to mind when I ponder over a place to get that lobster craving fixed. Reputed as one of the best lobster restaurants in Singapore, its popularity with the first outlet opened in 2014 along Duxton Road is pretty evident with its infamous snaking long queues and no reservations policy. Food consistency and attentive service still holds despite years into its operations. The talk of the town - that got all the seafood lovers flocking to this happening lobster joint. Food so good, the 'hype' over its lobster rolls never really dies down.

Following the success with its first and second outlet (in KL), the much-anticipated third outlet is opened today, 16 October 2017. This 60-seater restaurant is nestled along the charming, heritage-rich streets of Katong, located conveniently just across the Katong 112 mall. Owner Frederick Yap imports delicious seafood decadence from North America to his restaurant - Air-flown live and direct from the Atlantic Coast to the storage tanks at Pince & Pints all within 3 days, the wild caught lobsters are so deftly handled that they might be tricked into thinking that they are still swimming in the waters on the other side of the world. The importing process takes place 2-3 times a week depending on demand, and no lobster is allowed to stay in the restaurant for over a week. This guarantees the freshness and quality of the lobsters served at the customers' tables.
